

The Devil's Hand, +2 dagger

Weapon (dagger), Rare (requires attunement)

This sacrificial dagger is made from black iron originating from the deepest layer of the Nine Hells, Nessus – home to the lord of the Nine Hells, Asmodeus. The inscribed runes on the blade are a dedication to him. Its scabbard is crafted from the hide of a pit fiend. It is warm to the touch. If any good aligned characters touch the dagger, they will take 1d8 necrotic damage.

Religious. The dagger was created by the Cult of the Devil's Hand. It was used in their sacrificial ceremonies dedicated to Asmodeus. It is considered to be a relic of power by the cult. The Devil's Hand will do everything in their power to acquire this object should it be removed from their possession.

Language. The bearer can speak and understand Fiend while the item is on the bearer's person.

Hungry. The dagger's magical properties function only if fresh blood from a humanoid has been applied to it within the past 24 hours. It only needs a drop to activate it.
