STORY: After her jet was shot down over the Afghanistan mountains, R.A.F. Captain Little was severely wounded in the crash. She knew she had no hope of making her way out of the mountains alive but she refused to give up. As she slowly moved through the terrain in the dark, she was suddenly surrounded by Taliban fighters. The bullets flew past her as she tried to take cover amongst the nearby rocks.

She felt several bullets rip through her left leg as she crawled towards cover. She knew she had it but she wasn't ready to give up. She raised her pistol and fired several bullets into the darkness. Her hand began to shake and she dropped her weapon. On the verge of death, she was suddenly surrounded by a purple, crackling glow.

The surrounding darkness and mountains disappeared and she found herself teleported to an alien ship. Cathryn was subjected to intensive surgical and genetic modifications by a race of aliens known as the Void. They saved Cathryn's fleeting life and changed her into an avian warrior.

Her joy of being alive was short lived when she realized why the Void did what they did. She was trained and placed in gladiator games where she fought other modified beings (some human and many not) for the amusement of the Void. She was a regular at the games and became a crowd favourite. Much to Cathryn's shame, she began to enjoy the cheers of the crowd with each passing match. She knew she had to do something or else she would lose herself, and what it meant to be human, to her alien captors.

Eventually she led a slave rebellion and with her cohorts, she was able to steal a ship. They fought their way out of Void space with the ship seriously damaged. Before the ship exploded, Cathryn was able to make it to a life pod and escaped from the doomed ship. Her luck was with her for her pod crashed landed on Earth!

She now uses her abilities and training to fight for justice. She still finds herself missing the cheers of the crowds. Even with her gladiator days far behind her, she still has been known to play to the cheering crowd.

Aviatrix is a founding member of the Sensational Seven in Helios City.
