Recognition Handle: Tabitha Corinth is an attractive, charming woman with shoulder-length auburn hair and green eyes. She usually wears an off-white and gold jumpsuit with a matching jacket. She often has a blaster pistol on her hip and a small blaster pistol hidden in her right boot.

Distinguishing Physical Characteristics:

Tabitha Corinth wears an off-white and gold jumpsuit and jacket of Terran design. She often reveals a good portion of her cleavage if she thinks it will bring her an advantage when dealing with others (namely merchants and excise officers). She wears a set of Berran wristbands which contain a micro-computer on the right wrist (used for data storage, like keeping track of what's in the cargo hold) and a glorified calculator/tax generator on the left wrist.

Brief Personal History:

Birthplace: Berra, AD 2652.

Tabitha Corinth was born on the planet of Berra, located in the Holka system. Berrans are known as master traders and Tabitha was no different. She was well-versed in the Berran arts of trading and haggling. She was fortunate to have been born to a wealthy clan who provided for her training and her vocation as a merchant's assistant. Tabitha craved for more than her station within Berran society could provide.

At the age of 17, she stowed away on a Terran freighter, known as the Gatchaman Star, that had brought a cargo of exotic Earth spices to Berra. Tabitha was found by the captain of the freighter, a Terran woman named Heather Shaw, who took a liking to her and taught her the ways of a freetrader. Tabitha became like a daughter to the old captain.

At the age of 23, the Gatchaman Star was besieged by space pirates and Captain Shaw was fatally wounded during the battle against the pirates. Tabitha was able to maneuver the freighter through an asteroid field and lose the attacking pirates but she was powerless to save her adopted mentor, Captain Heather Shaw. With her dying breath, Shaw bequeathed the Gatchaman Star to Tabitha.

Tabitha continued with her freetrading ways with the Gatchaman Star until an unfortunate run in with a Terran Imperial border patrol who demanded the Gatchaman Star to lower her shields and be boarded. The ship was carrying a cargo of Astran Wine and Tabitha knew the Terrans would just confiscate it for their own pleasure leaving her without her precious cargo. She decided to outrun the border patrol instead.

Her luck was not with her this time as a well placed blast from the border patrol's ion cannons knocked out her ship's engines and she crashed on the wilderness planet, Vannus IV. She escaped her crashed ship only to be captured by the primitive inhabitants of Vannus IV. She was facing certain death (probably as a potential meal) when she was rescued by a traveller known as Lord Marco (a Time Lord known as Marconollavirandavashi). Grateful for the rescue and having no ship of her own, she joined Lord Marco as they travelled through time and space.

Personality:

Motivations/Desires/Goals:

Tabitha Corinth has a restless nature and has an overwhelming urge to explore. If she can earn a profit while doing so is even better. She is a woman of action who has a thirst for excitement. She became a freetrader because she could do all of the above. She isn't afraid to speak her mind. While she has been involved in many shady deals, she does have a set of standards which even she won't cross.

Manner:

Tabitha is persuasive, charming, sexy and has an almost innocent air about her. She enjoys a good laugh and loves the thrill of adventure. She has a quick mind and an equally sharp tongue.
