ORIGIN AND BACKGROUND: (Android) Android A194666 was created by the Armenko Corporation for one of their many adventure amusement parks. He was meant for a horror themed show, but his programming had a major error. He actually thinks he is a vampire and must feed on blood to continue his operation.

Android A194666 now calls himself Adam and he uses the name of Blood Spectre as his super-villain nom de plume. He has modified his systems so that he not only has the psychological desire for blood (his programming) but a physical need for his android systems to function at top efficiency.

Blood Spectre hates the Armenko Corporation for creating him and his desire for blood to survive. Since they wanted a villain, he will give them what they wanted.
