Background: The secret medical research company, known as the Bazile-Fong Corporation, were conducting illegal and immoral experiments on multiple species of animals in an attempt to 'uplift' them for use as a future resource (re: slave labour). One such animal test subjects was a black bear pup labelled Sigma-34B212. These multi-genetic and biochemical experiments mutated and changed his body and mind into the mutant animal that he is today.

When that particular experiment came to an end, the test subjects were deemed to be failures and were ordered to be eliminated. One young medical research assistant, by the name of Skye Tanner, took pity on the young bear cub and took him home with her instead. She was surprised when he began to show signs of mutation. He grew into the form he has today. Sky raised him in her home as a pet; who she called Sigma.

Skye was kind to Sigma and she help educate him as he grew. Sigma was fond of Skye, but he yearned for his freedom. He escaped into the night. By skulking around the fringes of society he was able to further expand his rudimentary education.

Soon after his escape from Skye Tanner's home, the Bazile-Fong Corporation realized that there was an outstanding test subjected hadn't been eliminated. The company set up a secret strike force (known as the Correction Agency) to track down the missing mutant animal and to 'correct' the original oversight (i.e. kill the escapee).

Once Sigma realized he was being hunted by the corporation that created him, it put him over the edge in his views towards humanity. He was initially just distrustful of humans but his desire for revenge has radicalized Sigma. Sigma took the name of Che Bearvara and created the Animal Freedom Resistance (AFR) in an attempt to achieve his dream.

Since its creation, Che Bearvara has brought other disgruntled ragtag of misfits together to form a revolutionary terrorist group dedicated to overthrowing humanity's control on the globe (while dodging the Bazile-Fong Correction Agency goons).
