Background/Notes

Huthor Ingus is from a wealthy merchant family who call Rel Mord their home. Their patriarch, Sir Deelwood Ingus, has faithfully served King Archbold III for over fifty years. It is a proud record that he shares with his sons on a regular basis to remind them they are nothing without the family name.

Since Huthor was second born, he had the freedom to dedicated his life to his deity, Pelor. Unlike his older brother, Deelwood Ingus II, who was volunteered into the Nyrondeese heavy cavalry by his father. Huthor would feel sorry for his older brother if he wasn't a dick all the time. The two have never been close. The only thing they share is a hatred of their over-dominating father.

He takes solace in his faith to the point that he can now cast divine magic in the name of Pelor. It wasn't that very long ago when he couldn't do that as an initiate.

Notes

Huthor Ingus' Charisma is so low is because he is uncooth and every other word is a curse word (just because he was born to a lifestyle of wealth doesn't mean he has any class). While his persona may be abrasive, his heart is in the right place.

Skilled Mace Weapon Mastery: [P = All types of targets] +2 to hit vs. Primary, +1 to hit vs. Secondary; Damage 2d4; Defence H: -1 AC/1; Special None.
